Condoms

At Karex, we manufacture latex condoms that are made from premium quality natural rubber latex. Our condoms are designed with total reliability whereby each condom is electronically tested to provide maximum protection and safety. In fact, our condoms are manufactured and tested beyond the requirements of stringent international standards like ISO 4074 and WHO specifications.

Every design is carefully engineered by our Research and Development team which comprised of industry experts and each variant is developed to create the ultimate pleasure for end users.

As the world's largest condom manufacturer, we offer the widest selection of condom varieties and we are able to customise condoms according to your specifications.
